BEAUCHAMP BROKE UP A GOOD THING.

Jockey's Hard Effort on Louis Wagner Beat Byrne of Roscrea in the Third.

FITZKANET WON WITH EASE.

Was Away in Front and Never in Danger-Watson Gave Zazel a Splendid Ride-Peter Nolan's Droll Luck.

It was just mere luck and the hard trying of Jockey Beauchamp on Louis Wagner that broke up a "good thing" in the third race at the Fair Grounds yesterday. The looks of the betting would lead you to think that Byrne of Roscrea was a 1-to-19 shot in a field, where he should have

Byrne of Roscrea is recently from the there, and he is not worth much more here. He is a gangling, bad-legged chestnut. There was a lot of good ones in the race, including Hunter Raine, Terra Firma, Bendara, Chandoo, Ogle and Dean Swift, any one of whom should give Byrne of Roscrea ten pounds and a beating. Yet Byrne was backed as if he was Nasturtium or Yankee, while Wagner, Raine, Ogle and the others were played only by their parties. The Cahn party backed Terra Firma heavily, and Troxler gave it a bad ride for

As the boys went to the post Judge Brady called Beauchamp on Louis Wagner over and told him to get busy on the colt. Beauchamp did. To his pernicious activity the backers of Byrne of Roscrea may attribute the defeat of their horse. Beauchamp beat Byrne Gets the Best of Start.

Like all the good things that have started about St. Louis this season always do. Byrne got off well—in fact, running in front. Beauchamp grabbed Louis Wagner by the head and sent him after him in a hurry. Wagner is a long striding, big colt and reeds time to get striding. Beauchamp took him along too fast and made scrambled eggs of him. But he put Byrne of Roscrea away doing it.

Terra Firma was well off, but Troxler gave him the great grandfather of all bad rides, let him loaf at the start, got him into the deepest going and then jammed him into a pocket. This rice was almost as bad as Beauchamp's on Fickle Saint. Patton rushed Ogle from last place to the front in one-quarter of a mile. Big, lazy Dean Swift was allowed to loaf along as he pleased. Chandoo was laboring along under Enos. Bendara was going as if he did not know what he was there for. Hunter Raine was trying his best, but slow to begin. The others were trying too—to see how long it would take them to run the six furlongs.

The useless Byrne of Roscrea quit in the stretch and said "Take it" to Wagner when that good colt came along. It looked like Wagner then, but Kuhn got Hunter Raine loose some way and the good colt got up in the last few strides and won by a neck. Had it not been for Beauchamp's hard trying with Wagner it is $100 to a kick in the face that Byrne of Roscrea would have won. He was evidently the "goods." but chucked it when pinched by Wagner. When the riders of the other horses saw how easy it was to beat Byrne they all took courage and began to try for a race they seemed to think Byrne had won before he started. Judge Brady is entitled to credit for asking Beauchamp to break it up.

Another good thing got the best of the break in the fourth race, and this time it

Another good thing got the best of the break in the fourth race, and this time it copped. It was Fitzkanet. Off fiying some three lengths to the good, there never was anything in it but him. The Bronze Demon might have given him an argument with a good break, but she had no chance from where she got off.

treuse. Raine, a slow beginner, was best and won on his courage alone. He is a good colt over a route and on a slow track. Wagner ran a good race and might have done better had he not been hustled too much at the start. Trooker gave Terra Firma a very poor ride: was slow to get him going, and got him into all sorts of trouble in the stretch. This fellow can do better. Byrne is of slight account, save in mud. He is lean, spavined and ragged looking. Dean had a very easy race; is a bit high in condition. Ogle was badly ridden; can do better.

Charles probably was best and might have won had not Beauchamp taken him back at the half-mile, when he was going easily, cot him into a jam, then rushed him after the leaders around the turn. It was a sharp reversal for this horse, Regent was much used in setting pace. Rochester was made excessive use of in rushing to the frunt from last place. He can do better. Thress was cold and stiff and did not run her race. Lee Bruno needs a stronger boy than Hothersall on him. He will beat this lot when he gets a stout rider on him. Doughty ran one of his bad races.

"Hard-Luck" Pietro Nolan, who could not win a race at Chicago all summer, is falling into sewers these days, and brushing gold dust from his clothes, when he comes out. Pietro raced Nettle Regent, Bengal and that lot around Chicago all summer and was an also ran. He cannot lose with them at St. Louis. Bengal won his hird traight race for him yesterday at odds of 10 to 1 or better. How would you tike to own a horse that can win for you three times handrunning at odds of 10 to 1 or better?

Bengal won the first race by a nose yesterday at 16 to 1. Bengal is Mr. Nolan's horse. He beat Antolee, on whom Mr. Nolan's nag could not have won. But that is the way things will break.

Tenny Belle, at the awful odds of 18 to 1. got off in front in the second race, and the contenders, were of badly. Fickle Saint, who appeared to be a contender, was off well enough, and seemed to be in the race at the turn, but the way Beauchamp handled her then was a caution. Gossip of the Quarter Stretch.

Jockeys J. Daly and Trexler Have Not shown Brilliant Form.

Upon the authority of that excellent judge of the genus jockey, John L. Dempsey, who of the genus jockey, John L. Dempsey, who lost after they hit the head of the stretch.

It is said that A. B. Dade, who has been starting at Delmar Park and the Fair Grounds, will wield the flag at the Louis-ville meeting. Though not as widely advertised as Messrs. Dwyer or Holtman, Mr. Dade started in a very satisfactory manner at Delmar, where the form of the horses was the best known to American racing this season. The Fair Grounds spring meeting was rendered unsatisfactory by starting that did not meet with popular favor. Mr. Dade's work at Delmar was largely responsible for the satisfaction which that meeting gave, and in no small measure helped it to success in its struggle against very bitter competition. Mr. Dade has had some bad luck with the big fields at the Fair Grounds, and the ever fickle public may forget the good work he did at Delmar, but owners, who remember good and had started.

High prices and spirited competition was the order of things at the special sale of fine coach horses by Campbell & Reid Western Sales Stables Company at East St. Louis last night. One high actor sold for $1.250, and a pair of roadsters brought $1.600. The first named was bought by George Watson of London, England, and the pair by C. E. Crandall of St. Louis. The sale brought out a big attendance from St. Louis, including many ladies, and pronounced enthusiasm was shown when the best of the offerings passed under the hammer. St. Louisns are using it as an opportunity to complete their stables for the coming Horse Show and many prominent fanciers, including Louis Lemp, are on hand to pick up whatever is most desirable.

Thus far prices have been decidedly high for the best offerings, and a number of the best available are yet to be sold.

From the form he displayed yesterday. Bronough looks like the strongest candidate for individual honors. He has much the ndvantage in height over Reppy, and frequently got up in the air for successful returns which looked well-nigh impossible. Both men steered shy of the net game, and, as a rule, played well back to the edge of the court. Whenever it became necessary both did some clever volleying. Several of the games in the last two sets were run to deuce. The service of both men could have been improved, as there were several doubt faults registered. The fourth set was perhaps the most interesting. Reppy came out strong with his returns and succeeded in placing them well. A deuce set was the result, Reppy finally winning through his endurance and steadiness.

High is jubliant over its comparatively easy victory in the tournament. Out of the 14 points she will have 9 when the contest is finished. Western Military Academy generally furnishes some good players, but for some reason none of the cadets entered the lists this year. Manual retires without a single point and Smith stands second with 5 points.
